Acknowledgement of Country

We acknowledge the Traditional Custodians of Country throughout Australia and celebrate their unique cultural and spiritual relationship to the lands and waterways where we live and work. We acknowledge the significance of their history and cultures in Australia and pay our respect to Elders past and present. In particular, we acknowledge the Traditional Custodians of the lands on which BCG Australia has its offices: the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation (Sydney); the Wurundjeri people of the Kulin Nation (Melbourne); the Whadjuk people of the Noongar Nation (Perth); and Gundungurra people of the Ngunnawal Nation (Canberra).

Message from BCG Australia Managing Director and RAP Champion

Our purpose at Boston Consulting Group (BCG) is to unlock the potential of those who advance the world – including the First Nations people on whose lands we are privileged to work and live, and whose history, culture, leadership and contributions are so critical to the future of this Country and of all Australians.

We are therefore proud to articulate and publish our deep history and commitments to reconciliation in this Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP). We would like to thank our partners, RAP team, and Reconciliation Australia for providing their wisdom, expertise, and critical challenge in helping us craft this ambitious plan.

BCG has a strong history of supporting Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in Australia. Through our 20-year founding partnership of Jawun, as well as other First Nations organisations, hundreds of BCGers have contributed many thousands of hours and millions of dollars of in-kind support on topics such as economic development, education, welfare reform, and assisting the drive towards self-determination through efforts like Empowered Communities and our ‘Submission on an Indigenous Voice’.

We also recognise that there is much work left to do. While the material situation for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in Australia has improved over the last 20 years, the gap in outcomes compared with non-indigenous Australia is still alarming. Without ongoing urgent action, Australia will continue to lose vital cultural knowledge and links to history and Country forever, and stifle the contribution of First Nations people to our social and economic fabric.

This RAP process has allowed us to take stock of our history, and to publicly commit to our ambition. It has challenged us to build on our strong history, identify the areas we can and will do better, and amplify our contributions both externally and within our own organisation. We are proud of the RAP we have put forward and believe it will allow us to contribute in new ways – always with a spirit of humility, respect, partnership and deep commitment to a reconciled Australia.
Reconciliation Australia commends Boston Consulting Group on the formal endorsement of its inaugural Innovate Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP).

Commencing an Innovate RAP is a crucial and rewarding period in an organisation’s reconciliation journey. It is a time to build strong foundations and relationships, ensuring sustainable, thoughtful, and impactful RAP outcomes into the future.

Since 2006, RAPs have provided a framework for organisations to leverage their structures and diverse spheres of influence to support the national reconciliation movement.

This Innovate RAP is both an opportunity and an invitation for Boston Consulting Group to expand its understanding of its core strengths and deepen its relationship with its community, staff, and stakeholders.

By investigating and understanding the integral role it plays across its sphere of influence, Boston Consulting Group will create dynamic reconciliation outcomes, supported by and aligned with its business objectives.

An Innovate RAP is the time to strengthen and develop the connections that form the lifeblood of all RAP commitments.

The RAP program’s framework of relationships, respect, and opportunities emphasises not only the importance of fostering consultation and collaboration with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities, but also empowering and enabling staff to contribute to this process, as well.

With over 2.3 million people now either working or studying in an organisation with a RAP, the program’s potential for impact is greater than ever. Boston Consulting Group is part of a strong network of more than 1,100 corporate, government, and not-for-profit organisations that have taken goodwill and intention, and transformed it into action.

Implementing an Innovate RAP signals Boston Consulting Group’s readiness to develop and strengthen relationships, engage staff and stakeholders in reconciliation, and pilot innovative strategies to ensure effective outcomes.

Getting these steps right will ensure the sustainability of future RAPs and reconciliation initiatives, and provide meaningful impact toward Australia’s reconciliation journey.

Congratulations Boston Consulting Group on your Innovate RAP and I look forward to following your ongoing reconciliation journey.

Karen Mundine
Chief Executive Officer | Reconciliation Australia
BCG is a global consulting firm that partners with leaders in business and society to tackle their most important challenges and capture their greatest opportunities. Our success depends on a spirit of deep collaboration and a global community of diverse individuals determined to make the world better every day.

Our purpose is to unlock the potential of those that advance the world. We work closely with clients to embrace a transformational approach—empowering organisations to grow, build sustainable competitive advantage, and drive positive societal impact.

Our diverse, global teams are passionate about unlocking potential and making change happen, delivering solutions through leading-edge management consulting, technology and design, and corporate and digital ventures.

We currently have ~22,000 employees across more than 90 offices, in over 50 countries. Among our clients are world leaders, governments, NGOs, and many of the world’s largest companies. We employ ~500 staff (full-time equivalent) across our Australian offices in Sydney, Melbourne, Perth and Canberra, with ~1% of employees identifying as Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people.
We work hand-in-hand with our clients, not only delivering high-quality results, but empowering them to deliver and grow after our engagement ends.

We are guided by our purpose, and we put our principles into practice by capturing key opportunities to bring insight to light; drive inspired impact; conquer complexity; lead with integrity; and grow by growing others. We also strive to live our values daily across all decisions we make:

Integrity
We take the time to consider our actions and ask whether we can defend them openly today and tomorrow

Respect for the individual
We respect the capacity and desire for personal growth, as well as the talents and beliefs of clients, colleagues, alumni, recruits, and all other people we meet in the course of our work

Clients come first
We measure our success by our clients’ success

Diversity
It is fundamental to our success that we accept, value, and incorporate the contributions of people from a wide variety of backgrounds

Strategic perspective
We consider the business as a whole, the competitive system, and its dynamics

Partnership
We take a long-term view in our relationships, and strive to build bonds founded on respect, caring, honesty, and mutual support

Value delivered
We create value for our clients that returns many multiples of their investment

Expanding the art of the possible
Our goal is not simply to apply best practice but to invent it

Social impact
We create a positive and lasting impact beyond the business domain
Our vision

BCG envisions a future for reconciliation where Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples’ diverse histories, cultures, and rights are embraced and celebrated by all Australians, and form an integral part of our collective identity.

This connection will help advance the interests of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, unlocking equal opportunities, outcomes and improving social unity in Australia.

Guided by our purpose to unlock the potential of those who advance the world, we strive to contribute our expertise to the endeavours of First Nations peoples and work to remove the long-standing structural inequalities present in Australian society. Change will come from directly addressing barriers to equality and supporting our clients, colleagues, and community to achieve their full potential.

We understand the time to act is now, and we do not underestimate the challenge ahead of us.
Our journey

BCG has a history of supporting First Nations since the 1990s. We have worked with leaders and communities, used our voice on issues impacting Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, and worked to build a diverse and inclusive workforce.

We have partnered with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leaders and organisations across health, education, housing, business, institutional and employment reform, including:

- Co-found Jawun with Noel Pearson and Westpac in 2000, with half of our most senior BCGers having been directly involved through secondments or executive visits. We have deployed over 120 secondees to partner organisations (see page 13 & 14)

- Support leaders nationwide to establish Empowered Communities, a societal governance and development framework, with self-determination at the core. Empowered Communities supported leaders to shift from the traditional social policy framework in which Indigenous affairs has been conducted, to a comprehensive Indigenous empowerment agenda. Empowered Communities was approved and has been funded by the Commonwealth Government since 2016

- Design and advocate for Wunan’s Indigenous-led governance agenda, working with leaders in Halls Creek to create a policy framework to re-establish positive cultural and social norms. The conversations with and support gained from the community were instrumental in setting the foundation for Empowered Communities in the East Kimberley

- Partner with Cape York Aboriginal Australian Academy, to deliver 15x–50x lift in numeracy and literacy results within two years and increased school attendance from ~45% to ~70%

- As a founding member of the Raising The Bar initiative, increase spend with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander suppliers with Supply Nation, consistently exceeding our targets on influencable spend

- Develop an economic strategy and Country plan for Eastern Maar Aboriginal Corporation
Finding our voice

In March of 2021, BCG provided feedback on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Voice Discussion Paper. Our feedback was based on our long-standing, mostly pro bono work with both locally and regionally based Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leaders and communities; on our experience with Commonwealth and state governments; and our expertise in change management and delivery for corporate and not-for-profit Australia.

We have also been developing our voice on other issues which matter to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples:

- Holding events throughout National Reconciliation Week and NAIDOC week to promote education and celebration of Country and culture
- Holding Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community activities at our all-staff gatherings, including workshops, education, and immersion experiences
- Supporting events run by our Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander partners, such as Jawun’s Stories of Female Leadership Convention and Jawun’s Cape York Dinner
- Exploring internal cultural awareness and nation-building training programs for non-Indigenous employees

We are committed to creating a diverse workforce, and to capturing the value of this diversity through an organisational culture that welcomes everyone to participate. In recent years:

- Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander staff comprised ~1% of our new hires
- We launched our First Nations scholarship program, with financial benefit and an offer to join our consulting team
- We continuously review and update our policies to ensure they are culturally appropriate. Recent changes include the introduction of our Cultural and Religious Leave Policy (which supports our people to celebrate days of cultural significance or participate in religious festivities), and our flexible ME days (which can be taken at any time)
Our Reconciliation Action Plan is supported by all BCG staff and championed by our First Nations Pillar, specifically:

- Trish Clancy, Managing Director and Partner (RAP Champion & Jawun Partnership Lead)
- Peter Adam, Principal (First Nations Pillar Lead)
- Danielle Bannon, Canberra Operations Services Manager
- Mark Beaumont, Project Leader
- James Barklamb, Associate
- Aanchal Chopra, Diversity, Equity & Inclusion and Engagement Lead
- Sasha Culley, Associate
- Samara Dunn, Talent Acquisition Specialist
- Hugo Edwards, Consultant
- Samantha Finnegan, People Experience Specialist
- Lu Gumina, Operations Services Manager
- Bede Jones, Consultant
- Bill Kelsall, Managing Director and Partner
- Casey Matherson, Client Services Coordinator
- Olivia Morrison, HR Senior Project Coordinator
- William Ng, Senior Knowledge Analyst
- Vijay Pasupathinathan, Principal
- Andrew Petersen, Regional Head of People and Talent
- Georgina Pruden, HR Manager
- Bowen Shi, Consultant
- Anthony Smith, Consultant
- Alex Thornton, Consultant

The pillar exists for Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander employees and allies to drive the internal and external actions of the firm towards reconciliation. It has also been envisaged as a network for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees to build connections and mentorship, much like our other diversity and inclusion pillars (Women, Pride, Able @BCG). All of our Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees are part of the pillar and are encouraged to feel ownership over the agenda and direction, despite the pillar in its current form being mostly non-Indigenous allies.
Our work with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leaders through Jawun

In 2000, Noel Pearson published his seminal analysis “Our Right To Take Responsibility”. Noel, BCG and Westpac co-founded Jawun shortly after, to act as a facilitator between corporates, philanthropy and governments and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leaders and organisations. The aim was to bring the top people from public and private sector Australia to work alongside Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities to accelerate development based on the priorities of the individual communities.

Since Jawun’s inception, BCG has supported leaders and organisations to tackle their highest priority issues, on topics including institutional support, education, health and housing, welfare, work, business enterprises and IT (see page 13 & 14).

Jawun has since involved over 25 corporate partners, driving a multiplier effect and increasing visibility within Australia’s most significant organisations.
Over 20 years, we have completed a wide range of high-impact work with Jawun partners (I/II)
Over 20 years, we have completed a wide range of high-impact work with Jawun partners (II/II)
Bold ideas need bold partners. It’s a simple truth, but a powerful one. As a founding member of Jawun, BCG has been a bold and trusted partner to Indigenous Australia for over 22 years.

Australia needs the kind of inclusive, ethical leadership that BCG represents. BCG use their voices and talents to empower our Indigenous partners and challenge us all to reimagine a world where Indigenous peoples live a life by choice not chance.

BCG has consistently provided their top people to take on some of the biggest challenges we face in this country, and their commitment to these issues has stayed strong over the years.

Over 120 of their consulting and business services staff have made great contributions to our partner organisations across the nation and their people stay closely connected to our agenda beyond their secondments. Their assistance has seen us sponsor national reforms, evolve our business model, and grow to support 13 regions.

I congratulate BCG on delivering their Reconciliation Action Plan and look forward to their continued support to Indigenous Australia.

Relationships

Partnership is one of BCG’s core values and critical to our success. We are committed to growing and maintaining our relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leaders and communities to support their ongoing social and economic development. Our shared experience, particularly through our Jawun partnership, helps enhance our understanding of the challenges faced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, and improves BCG’s own contribution to reconciliation.

Respect

BCG recognises the value that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples’ culture and history contributes to Australian society. Growing our awareness of this contribution forms the basis for trust in our relationships, through which we can unlock equal opportunities and outcomes for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and improve social equity in Australia. Respect is at the core of reconciliation, especially in an environment where structural barriers remain. Respect is critical to ensure decisions are made in a way that is mindful of their impact.

Respect is the cultural glue which brings and holds us together, and it is our belief that it is important for every staff member to develop and show this respect in their personal and professional lives. As consultants who work at the top of industry and government in Australia, the decisions we influence have wide reaching impacts, and we appreciate the significant importance of deep respect for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and culture.

BCG is committed to advancing the interests of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples across the diverse regions of Australia. We have engaged with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leaders and communities, brought our deep experience in working with State and Commonwealth governments, and draw on our experience in change management and deliver, to help communities achieve their own development goals across Australia. As a founding member of Jawun, we have increased opportunities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander leaders and organisations for over 20 years. We believe our ongoing focus on prioritising First Nations suppliers is the simplest and most effective way to advance opportunities for First Nations communities.

We also recognise the role we play in unlocking the potential of First Nations talent in Australia through our talent development and career opportunities. This will remain a focus as we hire more diversely and strive to create opportunities for First Nations talent within and outside BCG.

About the Artwork - Kimberly Sunset

Desma Mengi

Biography

Desma started painting when she was young after watching her grandmother and her uncle from Kalumburu paint.

"He is the one I remember. He showed me how to do boab carving and that’s how I started. I also learnt from the elders Paddy Carlton and Peter Newry. I first began painting dreaming animals but now I am painting Country - Bucket Springs and Revolver Springs mainly as well as bush tucker. Now that my kids have grown up I am getting back into making art. I enjoy painting, it helps with the stress. I have started making bush jewellery too."

David Brown

Biography

“I was born in Perth but grew up in Mulan and went to school there before returning to Perth for boarding high school. My mother, Ivy Robertson, was an artist at the art centre in Balgo. After school I went west of Alice Springs to spend time with my Dad and his family at Kiwirrkurra community. I watched the old people paint there.”

David enjoyed living in Kiwirrkurra and learnt much from his grandfathers about his Country, in particular from famous Papunya Tula artist Uta Uta Tjangala. As an adult, David also painted occasionally for Papunya Tula when he visited Kiwirrkurra,

"I was a good drawer at school and have always work on improving my skills. I can do both styles, desert style and realism style."
